Summary of Changes

Assessments

The Philosophy Department will keep all assessments, including exams, online. We have closely monitored all of our online assessments in 2020 and 2021, and have found that the move online has made no difference to student attainment.

Programme structure

We are not planning to make any covid-related changes to programme structures in 2021/2: we do not plan to cancel any modules, or move any modules between terms, in response to the covid pandemic. However, we should note that every module is subject to a minimum cohort requirement, and so cannot run if insufficiently many students choose to take it.
